breeders, producing few off-spring, lavishing more care and attention on them and looking after them for longer period than any other

After devoting nearly two decades of parental energy to them it is, apart from anything else, grotesquely inefficient to send them off to be knifed, shot, burned and bombed by the offspring of other men. Yet, in little more than a single century (from 1820 to 1945), no less than 59,000,000 human animals were killed in inter-group clashes of one sort or another. This is the difficult explaining we have to do, if it is so obvious to the human intellect that it would be better to live peacefully. We describe these killings as men behaving 'like animals', but if we could find a wild animal that showed signs of acting in this way, it would be more precise to describe it as behaving like men. The fact is that we cannot find such a creature. We are dealing with another of the dubious properties that make modern man a unique species.

Biologically speaking, man has the inborn task of defending three things: himself, his family and his tribe. As a pairforming, territorial, groupliving primate he is driven to this, and driven hard. If he or his family or his tribe are threatened with violence, it will be all too natural for him to respond with counterviolence. As long as there is a chance of repelling the attack, it is his biological duty to attempt to do so by any

For many other animals the situation is the same, but under natural conditions the amount of actual physical violence that occurs is limited. It is usually little more than a threat of violence answered by a counter-threat of counter-violence. The more truly violent species all appear to have exterminated themselves - a lesson we should not overlook.

* * This sounds straightforward enough, but the last few thousand years of human history have over-burdened our evolutionary inheritance. A man is still a man and a family is still a family, but a tribe is no longer a tribe. It is a supertribe. If we are ever to understand the unique savageries of our national, idealistic and racial conflicts we must examine the nature of this super-tribal condition.

It is a story of piling on the agony. The first important was taken when we settled down in permanent dwellings. This gave us a definite object to defend. Our closest relatives, the monkeys and apes, live typically nomadic bands. Each band keeps to a general home but constantly moves about inside it. If two groups meet and threaten one another, there is little serious development of the incident. They simply move off and go about their business. Once early man became more strictly territorial, the defence system had to be tightened

Victorians for Victoria Council

WITH THE PROVINCIAL ELECTION safely out of the way for another three—perhaps wen four—years, British Columbians are now looking to the December municipal elections to provide the next political excitement in which they have an area of personal involvement and a considerable degree of participation.

In Victoria at that time city voters will be called upon to select a new mayor and four new aldermen to join those members of the city council whose term of office continues into 1970.

In these days of burgeoning populations, mounting needs for increased public services and the ever-growing demand for necessary but costly developments to keep urban areas alive and well, the job of city councillor is no longer the sinecure it once was. Indeed, the position has become a highly responsible and oft-times underpaid and

Despite these deterrents Victoria, in the main, has been fortunate in finding able men to fill the onerous task of directing and administering its civic affairs. It is to be sincerely hoped that its good luck will continue to hold into the future.

However, the way of Victoria's future is almost entirely in the hands of the city voters for it is upon them the onus rests for the selection and election - of the men who will be guiding its destiny in the years ahead. And because of this It behooves the electors to weigh carefully the quality and record of every individual who offers himself for civic public office. Qualifications for civic office are not overly demanding at the moment. Anyone, in fact, who is a tenant or a property owner in Victoria, and is over 21 and a British subject may offer himself as contamination.

However, there is a growing feeling that these minimal qualifications are not enough; that one more important requirement be added to the list this being that anyone who seeks a council seat in Victoria must be a resident of the city.

The Colonist wholly endorses this view and supports any amendment to the Municipal Act in order to bring this change about. At present no less than four of the nine members of Victoria's city council, including the mayor, do not live in Victoria. With all respect to those members involved, this is a ridiculous state of affairs and one which should be corrected as soon as possible.

Though it must be admitted that Victorians have been fortunate enough in the past in having councillors who even though not residents of the city have administered its affairs in the interests of the ratepayers at large in an impeccable manner, there is no guarantee that this happy situation will exist forever.

Under the present somewhat loose and unsatisfactory set of rules which allows such simple entree into city council it is quite possible that some time in the future Victoria's city council could be made up of a group of men not one of whom lives in the city he governs.

Even now some of our city councillors are able to vote on civic legislation which could result in increased property taxes which affect every homeowner in Victoria while their own homes remain unaffected by the additional costs they have approved.

Unless and until every Victoria city councillor from the mayor down - is a resident of the city, Victoria homeowners and ratepayers cannot be certain that their interests will be adequately

Image-Conscious Germans Fear Slight 'Nazi Triumph'

By JOE ALEX MORRIS, from Bonn

Come next Monday morning, there is a good chance that sleepy citizens all over the world will be startled by a headline looming across the breakfast table: "Nazi Triumph in Germany."

Thus oversimplified and exaggerated, people may learn that the right-wing National Democratic Party (NPD) broke through the five per cent barrier which keeps splinter parties jut of the West German parliament and achieved national

There is an equally good chance that the NDP may not make it. But the possibility that they will has given the political establishment here a severe case of willies.

It is not that many Germans consider the NDP a serious threat. But they are concerned about foreign reaction should the NDP make it. * * *

Already, German reporters in New York, London and elsewhere have conjured nightmare headlines, such as that above, as the typical reaction. They are probably London's xenophobic Daily Express this week carried a long feature on the NPD which said, among other things: "The conclusion must be that Germany is standing once again at a crossroads in

Von Thadden

This concern is uniquely German. Few Americans ever considered George Wallace's campaign in terms of what it meant to America's prestige abroad. Similarly, when Englishmen talk about Enoch Powell's racial theories, they don't concern themselves overly with foreign reaction.

The modern German has a real hangup on this subject. He may be respected for his pressing enthusiasm for substantive moves rather than reiteration of past positions.

But even there the two sides are repored to have remained divided on how to approach the problem.

his war-torn country. But he is not loved. He knows it, and it hurts.

The NPD is thus an embarrassment insofar as it gives every professional Germanbaiter a glorious opportunity over the revival of naziism. The fact that the martis vate will hardly exceed five per cent (Wallace got 13 per cent) will be largely ignored.

* * * There is, of course, a difference. George Wallace never suggested setting up concentration camps and gas chambers as a method of solving a political problem. On the other hand, neither has Adolf von Thadden, the aristocratic NPD boss whose sister was executed for treason by the Nazis.

Von Thadden argues he is giving the Germans their first nationalist alternative after 20 years of kow-towing before the altars of European unity and the Atlantic alliance.

Many leading West Germans, including Chancellor Kiesinger, have said publicly they do not consider the NPD to be neo-nazi, and if it had the evidence, the government long ago would have asked the constitutional court to han the party as anti-democratic.

* * * Nonetheless, if the party makes it into the bundestag (narliament), the worldwide reaction will be one of alarm. Serious editorials will appear responsible newspapers taking a grave view that one German voter out of every 20 voted nationalist.

This suggests a lack of confidence in the postwar development of democracy here. Such reactions, spurring anxious German counterreactions, hardly work to-wards promoting a healthy democratic climate.

* * * In this campaign there have already been signs that the NPD threat is warping German concepts of freedom and democracy. The federal gov-ernment is freely dispensing money to anti-NPD propagandists and its spokesmen comment openly on the lack of objectivity of foreign correspondents based here who, they say, concentrate too much on the right-wing party. The NPD cannot place ads in the major newspapers, and there is an unwritten understanding among newspaper publishers to ignore the party whenever possible and play it ignored.

This appears to apply even to damaging reports: a major political event last weekend was a tumultuous NPD rally in Essen where Von Thadden was manhandled by a youth.

The meeting got one paragraph on inside pages of the papers here. In contrast, it was the lead story in the international Herald Tribune, printed in Paris.

What is surprising is that a

This is perhaps more ominous than the appearance of the NPD on the scene itself. That Germany should have a right-wing nationalist splinter party is hardly surprising.

divided country whose farmers are upset over the common market and which for 25 years has been occupied by hundreds of thousands of foreign troops should only give five per cent of its vote to this party.

Monday morning's headlines will not reflect this. The best one can hope for is that the trauma surrounding this party and the election will soon pass, and the Germans can get on with the painful process of building democratic tradition.

Despite lack of public evidence to support such optimism, the Nixon administragives every sign of confidence that a new era of improved relations with the Kremlin is approaching.

If so, it would mean President Nixon has made at least start on his campaign pledge to move "from an era of confrontation to an era of negotiation" between the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

This buoyant attitude among American diplomats follows State Secretary William Rogers' dinner meeting in New York Monday night with the redoubtable Andrie Gromyko Soviet foreign minister, and reports from lower levels of U.S.-Soviet contact around the United Nations headquarters. On the face of it, Gromyko disappointed the Americans by not agreeing to a site and date for the long-delayed strategic arms limitations talks the so-called SALT.

* * * Although Rogers apparently expected agreement at least on when the preliminary talks could start they could argue about the location later all Gromyko would say was 'soon." Reminded by reporters later that he had publicly said the Soviet Union was prepared for the talks, Gromyko said only that the "time will come."

Diplomatically, Rogers did not press for an answer. Nor, apparently, did he hother parading the argument that time is growing short since the U.S. is going ahead with its counter-missile system and even the development of its multiple-warhead weapon. The Soviets know

Children Victims of Psycho-Social Dwarfism

No Love, No Growth

By HARRY NELSON, from Los Angeles

A hizarre condition in children who eat and drink excessively but fail to grow normally was described here by a Baltimore pediatrician. Some doctors call it the garbage can syndrome. Others the mud puddle syndrome. But the name selected by Dr. Robert Blizzard — psycho-social is best because it describes the root of the "Many pediatricians used to call hogwash the notion that the psyche might control growth, But it's not hogwash," the John Hopkins University pediatrician said. He has been studying children who seem to be eating and drinking all the time. They even scavenge garbage cans and drink from mudpuddles.

But they don't seem to grow. Tosts show that their level of growth hormone is far below what it should be. Many of them may have been classified as hypopituitary dwarfs, meaning children who are abnormally small because they lack sufficient growth hormones.

But the big difference between a true dwarf and the one studied by Blizzard is that the latter will grow if he is taken out of his home and placed in a different environment, even an orphanage. Some of them grow as much as 10 inches in a if returned to their old environment, they immediately stop growing, the pediatrician said. Studies of the homes of these children have revealed what appears to be the underlying reason for their growth problem. They are totally and completely unloved by their parents. Sometimes the mother admits that she hates the child and does not want him. In other cases this becomes obvious although she may not admit it.

Typically the father is either an alcoholic or away from home for long periods.

The child usually is shy and withdrawn, has retarded speech! plays alone, steals food, has violent temper tantrums and gorges himself with so much food that he vomits. . Blizzard, whose main interest is in treating children who cannot make enough growth hormones, said the psyco-social type is far more common. He and other physicians suspect that the syndrome exists in far subtler forms in an indeterminate number of children.

The only treatment for psycho-social dwarfism, he said, is a change in environment.

How to save and improve your hair demonstrated by expert here Fri. and Sat.

New home treatment methods for preventing baldness - and growing thicker hair-will be demonstrated in Victoria this Friday and Saturday, September 26 and 27. This news was released here today by A. B. Harrison, internationally famous director of Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists.

In the announcement, Harrison named staff trichologist T. Cronshaw to conduct the Victoria clinic. Cronshaw will personally examine hair-worried Leonard A. Floyd before and after men and women from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the Hotel Sussex.

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark has given approval to a crash program to establish 100 convalescent beds at St. Joseph's and Royal Jubilee Hospitals, Mayor Hugh Stephen told the Capital Region hospital, board Wednes-

The ac commodation is designed to alleviate the shortage of hospital beds pending implementation of the

gram which it is hoped will be approved by the voters in March 1970

The beds attached to St. Joseph's will be housed in prefabricated units and will be termed "sub-acute" - which in hospital terminology means convalescent. The release of such beds will, eventually, mean more beds for acute care patients who need emergency treatment.

In addition to 50 beds at St. Joseph's, an equal number will be released at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

This will be done by transferring 50 patients from the pavilion (psychiatric ward) to the new Eric Martin Institute, where they will be cared for by Royal Jubilee

The release of the 50 beds will mean more accommodation for acute-care patients.

Cost of the St. Joseph's part of the total program has been estimated at $410,000.

Mayor Stephen said Wednesday that this part of the program had been approved by the health minister. He said he had received a call and had been assured verbally acceptable to the department. Cost involved, the mayor said woould be between $7,000 and $8,000 a bed.

In order to take care of the immediate cost, money would be shifted from the extended care referendum held last

The gadget is a complicated boxful of steel tubes. It traps left-over heat-heat most furnaces waste up the chimney. The gadget-a special heat-exchanger—is unique to the Shell

Here's how it saves heating dollars. The heat-exchanger sits between the combustion chamber and the chimney outlet (see cutaway diagram). Hot waste gases from the combustion chamber flow through the tubes, making the tubes hot. Cool Room Air is drawn over the hot tubes and becomes heated.

How much will you save?

Because this heat-exchanger saves 'left-over heat', you save money. How much you save depends on two things: the efficiency of your old furnace, and the efficiency of the rest of your heating system. A typical 15 yr. old furnace runs at 60-65% efficiency. A new Shell Furnace can reach an efficiency of 85% in an

Tony Jacklin Draws Credit For Britain's Golf Success

If British golfers shoot steady 90s and four-putt every green between now and Christmas, nothing can stop 1969 being the greatest year that British golf has known since the war.

The trouble with being a dab-hand with the adjectives is that I have very few left to describe the... Ryder Cup match. But Britain's stupendous efforts, omning as they did after Tony Jacklin's Open Championship victory, have now beyond question resemblished Britain as a leading power.

The extraordinary thing about it is not that it has happened, but the speed at which it happened.

I was only one of a dozen luminaries who, after the last Ryder Cup a mere two years ago, was wondering whether it wasn't time for Britain to swallow its pride and permit future battles to be fought out between the Commonwealth and America.

Thank heavens we never pursued that idea. And thank heavens, too, that the new generation of British young-sters really did get up from the backsides. Because, to me, the outstanding fact of the Ryder Cup was that it was the youngsters who inspired the veterans to new heights.

Above all — though men like Bernard Gallacher and Maurice Bembridge did their jobs magnificently — it was one man who made the whole thing possible.

That man was Tony Jacklin. It was Jacklin's superb golf against Jack Nicklaus that finally laid the ghost that finally laid the ghost that Americans are automatically better and tougher players. That kind of mood is infectious and, although it was obviously a team effort, I am certain that Jacklin's attitude was the fuse that caused the explosion.

Indeed, having thought long and hard about this before making a pronouncement. I now rate Jacklin — on current form — as one of the Big

Three in world golf.

Many qualities are needed to take such a ranking in the game, qualities that are not necessarily apparent in even the two months of glorious success that Jacklin has enjoyed.

But this young man now measures up to them all, and if I had to produce a list of the top three players alive in order of merit, it would now

3. Tony Jacklin (Great Br

I am trying to think when I could have last laid my hand on my heart and put a Briton among the Big Three. It is certainly not for 30 years.

There are many other riders to the Ryder Cup — the wisdom of British golf having persevered with the big ball; the superb sporting spirit apart from one isolated incident) which prevailed; the fine gesture by America in allowing Britain to share possession of the Cup until it is next played for; and the courtesy of Jack Nicklaus on the final green.

My favorite story of all the stories being swapped for hours after it was all over concerned the baby of the team, Bernard Gallacher.

At 20, he looked one of the most nerveless and mature players in either team. Yet on the opening day he turned to his partner and said: "I'll do anything you ask in this match. I'd die rather than lose it. But will you do just one thing for me? Take the first drive. I'm so nervous I'd probably have an air shot!".

Finally, let me add a postscript for those who believe that golfers are money mad, a state of mind that comes from playing for one-self and no one else month in month out.

Any of the millions of television viewers who saw Brian Huggett break down after sinking his final, all important putt will now know that playing for one's country is still the most important thing of all.

Hugget, in the Ryder Cup, was playing for peanuts. He couldn't have been more emotionally affected had he had his home and 1 million on that effect.

Things at National Trust get more interesting all the time.

National Trust has a Special Savings Account that offers 6\% % annual interest. Compared to other savings account interest rates, this one is really exceptional. Especially when that 6\% % is calculated monthly . . . not just quarterly or semi-annually. In fact, if you know what other savings accounts offer, you'll know why ours is one of the very best. And, if you know anything about business hours, you'll learn that National's are a bit more practical. Many of our offices are open Thursday or Friday nights and some even on Saturdays. # Use of DDT Ministers in Agreement Banned By Ontario

TORONTO (CP) - Ontario moved ahead of the federal government and the other provinces Wednesday by banning general use of DDT.

Health Minister Thomas Wells imposing the ban, effective Jan. 1, 1970, because experts feel there is conclusive evidence the insecticide is adversely affecting wildlife and some circumstantial entitles. stantial evidence of dangura human health. SPECIAL CASE

Under new regulations, use of DDT will be allowed only in certain special cases such as topic of farming, where its application will be greatly restricted, and only after a special permit has been obtained from the health department. DDT will no health denartment. DDT will no longer be available to the householder for use in his garden.

The minister said he thinks the new restrictions will reduce DDT use in Ontario by about 80 per cent. At present, about 300,000 pounds of the insecticide are used in the province each

CONTROL SOUGHT

Other provinces have no ban on DDT although provincial authorities are attempting to regulate its use. British Columbia and Saskatchewan use DDT mainly for mosquito control. The hunting season has been closed for Hungarian partridge in Prince Edward Island because of high levels of DDT found in the fowl. CONSULT FIRST

In Ottawa, Federal Health Minister John Munro said Wednesday provinces should consult first before taking the action Ontario has taken.

'I am going to suggest a discussion of this at the next meet-ing of health ministers" near end of November, Munro

AVERAGE LOW He said the federal govern ment is taking no action against use of the insecticide on the basis of danger to life or health. Sampling showed average daily intake of DDT in July was no more than five per cent of the World Health Organization's accentable level. There had been no increase in that level during the six-toeight-year period in which vegetable and animal samplings were made across the country Munro said. OTHER REASONS

'Ontario may have decided on the ban for a variety of different reasons having nothing to do with danger to human life or health." Munro told a news There is no question that fish and wildlife are in more danger than humans." CONSTANT CHECK

An interdepartmental committee involving agriculture, fisheries and national health and welfare departments was keeping a continuous check on the pesticides problem and could come up with recommendations for control or a ban. Munro said. Federal attention centred on danger to human life and health, and Munro said his body eliminates DDT faster than animals do MORATORIUM Recently, both the NDP and Liberal parties in Ontario asked for a provincial ban on the use of DDT and the Liberal caucus wrote Munro asking for a federal moratorium while its use is studied. Wells said the health department's Pesticides Advisory Board recommended the ban following recent private hearings at which experts testified about the dangers of DDT, he DEEP CONCERN

The experts had not agreed that DDT is a health hazard to humans, but they had expressed deep concern about evidence that the insecticide is affecting reproductive processes of wildlife

DDT, the short form of dichloro-diphenyl-trichlorethane, is a chlorinated hydrocarbon which builds up in the fatty tissue of animals that consume it along with their insect or plant food. Studies have found that some fish in the Muskoka and Great Lakes contain DDT concentrations higher than are considered safe for human consumption.

SAFER MEANS Wells said he hopes all use of DDT may soon be prohihited with the discovery of safer alternative pesticides

It will probably be some time before B.C. decides whether to follow the lead of Ontario in banning the general use of DDT as an insecticide. The three B.C. cabinet ministers most directly concerned with pesticide control all said Wednesday, in the wake of the Ontario announcement, that they would like to see DDT banned.

DDT isn't now included on the department's calendar of approved pesticides where safer alternatives are avail-

Agriculatre Minister Cyril able. Farmers and growers are encouraged to use alternative pesticides even though they are often more expensive, the minister said.

"But we think if DDT is to be controlled, it must be on a national basis," Mr. Shelford said. "We don't want to have border guards to stop the stuff coming in from Alber

He said there was no cause for public alarm, because DDT was being used less today than it had been, and rigorous tests of produce from commercial growers had shown no dangerous pesticide levels.

Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan said he would like to see DDT outlawed because among wildlife the damage caused by pesticides outweighed the benefits.

However, he added, in many resources-based industries, DDT had been found to be "immensely valuable" and therefore no ban could be instituted until suitable alternatives were found. * * * Earlier this week, the pro-

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing this letter on paper toweling since it is the only thing handy. I am sitting in a labor room with an unmarried cousin of mine. The poor kid is in her 11th hour of agony. It's too bad I can't get everything she is saying on a tape recorder.

What I am hearing now would make interesting listen-ing for the unmarried girls who are playing sex roulette. The moral of my cousin's story is that no girl who fools with sex is safe for sure, and cousin was on the pill, but she says she became days she was supposed to lay off and that's how she got pregnant. Her psychlatric so-cial worker told her this is not uncommon. They see many such girls. The explanation is that these girls have a pregnant so they get mixed up

Both the phosphorus and nitrogen content of sewage treatment plant had been cheaply reduced by 92 per cent. Compared to the 33-per-cent removal so far achieved by the hitherto-best-known treatment was used at sewage treatment method for the order of the new lime treatment plants, he would expect all municipalities to adopt it if further tests verify the Richmond Hill results. Kerr said that OWRC researchers are also testing a second process, based on the same principles, which could greatly increase the over-all efficiency of sewage treatment plants. This process is undergoing find tests on a pilot scale at OWRC laboratories in Toronto.

Kerr said the discovery, a nounce Lake Erie a dead lake. Since it could be installed at even the most rudimentary

Squatters Remain Unmoved By Judge

LONDON (UPI) - A London judge Wednesday ordered some 200 squatters to leave a disused school building and warned them they were running the risk of criminal prosecution.

Two representatives of the squatters, Denise Halloran, 17, and a boy identified only as "john." said "now we are going to build up defences and wait." SEARCH STARTS

High Court Judge Justice Shaw issued the order for possession of the aging Holborn school UILDING ON Endell Street, and police immediately moved in to begin searching the bedrolls and bags of hippies entering and leaving.

Miss Halloran told the court notice of the proceedings had not been served properly and asked for a one-week postponement. Shaw turned it down. WITHIN CONSPIRACY

The judge said the squatters "have brought themselves within the criminal law of conspiracy (and) the consequences of engaging in activities of this kind are being prosecuted and punished as criminals.

"They will find themselves in occupation which they have not chosen and which they will find not at all to their liking - jail. the judge said.

But squatter representatives remained unmoved. "We will not be turned out of Endell Street," John said. "The squatters will walk out."

Canadian North Wide Open to Disaster

By JOHN D. HARBRON

The 140,000-ton icebreaker-tanker Manhattan lay so low in the water-like a massive 1,000-foot long barge—because she was filled with 75,000,000 gallons of sea water in place of oil for her epic test run. Imagine this big a ship-or the bigger tankers planned by Humble Oil Company, her ownersmeeting a Titanic-like fate in the Arctic ice, spewing thousands and thousands of tons of petroleum

From such a disaster, the entire Canadian Arctic would he polluted. The shores of every Arctic island and the Cana-dian Arctic mainland would be covered with oil for years, the ecological balance of our North destroyed indefinitely.

The "fallout" would be even greater than in the case of the ill-fated Torrey Canyon which split open at the en-trance to the busy English Channel and she was a slightly smaller bulk carrier than the Manhattan. Millions of gallons of petroleum could be trapped in the Polar ice cap.

To compound the kind of disaster which happened to the Torrey Canyon in 1966, massive pollution in the North needn't come only from a super-tanker, but from the offshore methods for loading oil into these ships. region short of natural harbors.

Arctic oil will have to be transported to tankers at anchor via underwater oil pipelines or from storage facilities on specially-prepared ice islands. Humble Oil has already grounded two of these near Prudhoe Bay.

But pipelines can break and ice islands can deteriorate. At Prudhoe Bay, water is so shallow the big tankers will need oil pumped at least 25 and its competitors building even bigger ships for a regular commercial Arctic route, there could be 30 giants moving along the Northwest Passage by 1980. This would make for a potential of about ten million shipping annually moving through the Arctic, including accompanying iceand the growing

But none of the savings per harrel of crude will benefit Canada. President Nixon's cabinet task force on oil import-controls is primarily concerned with the long term security of American domestic oil supply—and the value to it of substituting lower cost Alaska crude to the market in place of its Middle Eastern oil supply from a part of the world plagued by perennial war and political chaos.

* * * Studies will have to be made immediately to prove Canadian Arctic oil will benefit from a main thrust of U.S. money, technology and exploration which is now directed at the staggering Alaska oil finds.

from them too. A clear gain to Canada from this potential demand for supertankers, could be our ailing but excellent shipbuilding industry. It is at the end of a 20-year phase of naval construction and gasps for long-term, commercial business. But no, the U.S. Jones Act specifies all shipments between U.S. points (say Prudhoe Bay and Newark, N. Y.), must be made in American-built ships.

Obviously there are substantial gains for Canadian Arctic growth from the decision to create a permanent commercial oil through the Northwest Passage. Tiny, struggling Arctic way-stations like Resolute Bay or Sachs Harbor would get boosts in population and ser-

Year-round Arctic transportation would justify the goahead for several lingering mining operations in the Northwest Territories and Arctic islands. These include iron ore, lead, zinc, copper, sulphur and of course, oil itself.

New harbors-even new communities serving as supply points for icebreaker and supporting icebreakers in transit, could be

I haven't seen all of the new shows yet othere are some I may never go to) but I would like to recommend one. The Bill Cosby Show, in which the Negro comedian plays a high school physical education teacher, from start to finish. It's on Channels 2 and 6 at 8 p.m. Thursdays and Channel 5 at 8:30 Sundays. I might add I'm not crazy about Cosby's recordings, but his show is Another reminder about Abouty's forthcoming movie contest. Start figuring out your 10 favorite movies of all time (it's a long job). In a moth or so, I'll ask for lists and there'll be a prize for the one closest to the over-all list, worked out by me on a point system.

LESS ENFORMATION: Wednesday's wicked answer - Chapter Jacs ended with two Negro words. Viper, in the recording of violinist-singer Stuff Smith, was a user of reefers, better known today as mari-juana or pot. Ofay is a Negro word for whites, and is Pig Latin for foe.

Today's question We recently spent some weeks playing a game of shared first words in movie titles. Here's word is Last. The clues time. Answers Friday

Thursday Highlights

NEW SHOWS are the Jim Nabors variety hour, which veryone seems to think will be a big hit, at 8 p.m. on Channel 7, plus Robert Young as Marcus Welby, MD, at $

NEW SEASONS start for It Takes a Thief, Family Affair, Tom Jones and Mannix. All but Mannix are on two channels, and the times are in the schedules on this page. C-7:30 p.m. — Ironside nuts, including my family, should watch a two-hour special. With Vera Miles — 5.

C-8:00 — Jim Nabors' variety series has Andy Griffith as guest and Frank Sutton as a regular - 7. C-8:30 - Dean Martin's mob includes Elke Sommer, David Janssen and Charles Nelson Reilly — 8. ● C-9:30 - A NET special for almost all of us is entitled Gourmet or Glutton? and asks the question, Are we eating too much? I don't know about you, but — 9.

C-10:00 - Possibly a special on Mao or on blind ple - 2, 6. C-10:00 Dean Martin again (see 8:30) - 5.

Thursday Movies

10:00 a.m. - Honeymoon for Three (1941 Warners C-12:45 p.m. - Kimberley Jim (1965 South Africanmade action). I'm told this is fairly good — 6, 8.

C-7:00 p.m. — Beach Party (1963 nothing), Robert Cummings Dorothy Malone and Annetee, who breathes -

● C-9:00 — Guns of Navarone (1961 suspense champ unvellevable but still great), David Niven, Gregory Peck, Anthony Quinn, Anthony Quayle, Stanley Baker, Richard is more. Part one is fairly hours is the cream—7, 12. C-11:45 — Clouded Yellow (good 1951 whodunit), Jean

Geraniums

Geraniums seem to have done exceptionally well this year, and I cannot recall any season in which the plants have grown so sturdily nor bloomed so profusely.

This may have been due to the weather pattern, but I think a more likely reason for this vigorous growth and lush bloom is because we are getting better plants nowadays.

It is a known fact that many of our older strains and varieties are infected with a virus that lowers the vitality of the plant without showing any obvious symptons. This infection has been so widespread that we have come to accept as normal the rather poor performance of most greatures.

Now, for the first time in many years, we are getting disease-free plants, thanks to new techniques in propagation, and these new, vigorous plants are showing up the old ones for the sickly creatures they really were.

Whatever the reason, geraniums in formal beds, in planters and window boxes, in hanging baskets and ornamental urns, have never looked more colorful. The problem now is how to bring them safely through the winter, for buying new plants every spring is an expensive business.

To use an Irish turn of speech, the best way to keep your plants is to scrap them. Take cuttings from your old plants, then pull up the old ones and give them the old heave-ho. Grow the cuttings on through the winter to make new plants for setting out next spring. Actually, such vigorous young plants new plants for setting out next spring.

Actually, such vigorous young plants are far superior to over-wintered parent plants which are almost invariably lanky, poorly formed, and with an overage root system.

The best slips are of young but well-ripened shoots — firm, short-jointed growths detached from the parent stems — but at a pinch you could use almost any portion of the plant except very soft, flabby shoots with long bare intervals between the leaves. Make your cut immediately below a leaf, five or six inches from the tip, and strip off all the leaves except those at the tip.

Moisten the cut end of each slip, dip it in Rootone or Seradix rooting powder, shake off any excess dust, and insert around the edge of a flower pot filled with a mixture of equal parts peat moss and vermiculite.

You can get from three to seven slips in each pot, depending on its size, so this method doesn't take up a great deal of room. Keep the rooting mixture only just barely moist, never soggy wet, for geranium slips are highly prone to rot diseases.

Keep your pots of slips at ordinary room temperatures and in a good light but out of direct sunshine until roots have formed, as indicated by new growth at the tips. Then move them to a sunny window of a very cool room, watering sparingly. This combination of bright sun, cool air and dryish roots will slow down growth and makes for a stocky, short-jointed, well-branched plant vastly superior to the skinny, tall specimens pampered in warmth.

Where no heated greenhouse or frame is available, the limitation of this method is the shortage of sunry windowsill space in the average home. Because of this, I am often asked how geraniums can be stored in a dormant condition, like dahlia or canna roots. This is possible with the parent plants if a very cool and humid storage place is avialable — a place where potatoes will keep well all winter without either freezing or sprouting. I repeat, though, that the performance of these old plants is never as good as vigorous young slips.

I must make it clear that there is no method, to my knowledge, whereby unrooted geranium slips can be stored safely through the winter. They must be rooted and kept growing, even though growth can be slowed down to a snall's pace.

ART BUGUWALD

Suit Like the Edsel

I have been looking at the new men's fashions with interest; but no matter what they tell me, I'm not going to be sucked in again. You see, I happen to be one of those unfortunate souls who was persuaded a few years back that the Nehru suit was the wave of the future.

Little did I realize that the Nehru would become to men's tailoring what the Edsel became to automobiles.

Nobody knows how many Nehru suits were actually sold during that period, mainly because very few men will admit now to having bought one. But in wardrobes all over the place, attracting moths and gathering dust, hangs the stark evidence of an era that most men would just as soon forget.

Most of the Nehru suits sold

Most of the Nehru suits sold were worn only once. The l a u ghter, wisecracks and snickering that greeted the wearer when he appeared in public drove him back to the dark depths of his closet, where he hid until the ridicule had subsided.

The world record for wearing a Nehru suit is held by Robert Yoakum of Lakeville, Conn. Yoakum wore his suit three times — once to a college reurion, once to dinner with his in-laws and once to a football game.

He was cited for bravery by the men's clothing industry and his suit was given to the Smithsonian Institution where it now hangs next to Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis.

Not all Nehru suit owners were as lucky: The real problem they have had is getting rid of their suits. Since most of them are new, wives have hesitated to throw them told him, "You must be crazy,

One of the problems of Nehru suit owners is that they're stuck with dozens of turtleneck sweaters and chained medalions that had to be worn with the suit.

I personally bought a dozen turtlenecks at the time I purchased my Nehru, because the salesman assured me I'd never have to wear a dress shirt again.

A friend of mine who had three Nehru suits made to order for him at $200 each, tried to hang himself with one of the medallions after he realized what he'd done. But the chain on it broke and he's now being sued by his tailor.

The question people are still asking is, why did the Nehru fail? You can get as many answers as there are Nehru suits.

A sociologist said, "The black Nehrus for formal evening wear made men look like priests, and I think many of them became tired of always being asked to give the hencelistics."

And a psychiatrist said, "I think anything will fall that keeps a man from putting his hands in his pants pockets."

Who Needs Stars?

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Prediction: Within a year, the million-dollar salary will be as dead as the dodo — whatever that was.

The success of John Voight in The Midnight Cowboy is further proof you don't need a star for a hit — the lines around the box office seem to grow longer and longer. His costar, Dustin Hoffman, was unknown when he made it in The Graduate, and I hope he is too smart to insist on a milliondollar salary, because even Dustin is only as good as his picture. This is now true all over the world — except until very recently in Hollywood.

The state of Hollywood today? You can count the number of important pictures being made on the fingers of one hand. Mostly, the big sound stages of the major studios are dark, or backgrounding the ever-increasing television series. In these series, you will find many of the stars who used to make big money in feature films. One notable example is ABC-TV's much-promoted The Survivors, by Harold Robbins, which stars George Hamilton, Lana Turner and Ralph Ballamy.

We have said it before and we must say it again — names like Elizabeth Taylor, Richard Burton, Marion Brando, Gregory Peck, etc., etc., don't mean a thing unless they are in a good film — and the good films today are mostly on a smaller scale and with new faces.

Belatedly, Hollywood is getting the message. Small pictures, with unknown actors and minor budgets, is the new plan, no longer whispered, but stated loud and clear in the studios where once reigned such giant stars as Gable,

Crawford, Bette Davis, Tyrone Power, Greer Garson and Garbo.

Can it be true that Oh, Calcutta! has been bought for a film? The most pornographic play of our day is the hardest ticket to get in New York. This sort of thing bores me, so I haven't seen it, but someone I know who attended a 7:30 p.m. show on Saturday said there was a line a mile long outside the theatre in spite of the "sold out" sign. "Come back for the 10:30 show," they were told. "There are a few seats left — at $25 each!"

Well, I see where Brigitte Bardet and Stephen Boyd had another meeting in Paris, but this time there was not even the suggestion of a renewed romance. (I never did believe the last rumors.) Brigitte has a new man in her life. Gone is young Patrick Gilles — he's 23 and Brigitte's 34. It is hard to think of the French kitten as an older woman. Pat's successor seems to be Michel Engel, also young. He publishes books in Paris. Perhaps now we will get an honest-to-goodness Bardot autobiography.

Why George Kennedy will have a long career? He is modest and he is grateful. At a recent Cocoanut Grove opening, Edward G. Rebisson was sitting quite a long way from George's table. "When he saw me," said George on the set of his current False Witness, "he came all the way over and congratulated me on my role in Cool Hand*Luke (for which George won the Oscar). I never thought," continued Kennedy, beaming with recalled pleasure, "that the day would come when a great star like Mr. Robinson would congratulate me on my performance."

For Display Only

A distinguished anthrolpologist visited a Bantu Village in South Africa in order to survey the habits and customs of the society. They were, of course, a primitive people, with very limited understanding of western ideas of culture. Nevertheless, he was given every co-operation and made to feel at home.

When he returned home he decided to forward a gift to the villagers. As an expression of his gratitude and appreciation he sent them a sun-dial. This way he thought they would have some way of telling time.

When they received this fine gift they were overcome with excitement and deep feelings of gratitude. A special village assembly was summoned where it was determined to accord this gift a vaunted place of honour. To preserve it for as long as possible from the elements, from wind and from diseaser, they built a thatched roof over it!

They remind us of some others:

got out of it. They preserve the tokens of education, keep them shiny and bright for all to see. But they are permanently short-changed by the small coins of their "knowledge." Knowledge, it is said, is power, and ideas are weapons — but weapons that have rusted for lack of use can hardly protect anyone.

• Religiouity — in the lives of some so-called reverent people! These people treat religion so kindly that it never gets exposed to the tough elements. It's an old religion, all right; but it's hardly ever heen used — at the times and in the places where it could have done its job. Too much Sunday-morning-at-eleven religion; not enough applied Monday through Saturday. Anything that's preserved that well is sure to become an unused antique — before too

Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad of Egypt indicated peace settlement.

Riad, emerging from an hourand-20-minute meeting with U.S. Secretary of State William Rogers in New York, was asked if the United Arab Republic accept a meeting with Israel along the lines of the 1948-1949 "Rhodes Formula."

The 1949 Arab-Israeli armistice was worked out by mediator Ralph Bunche between the two belligerent sides on the island of Rhodes. In the final stage the Arab and the Israeli negotiators signed the armistice in a hotel room.

Bus Purchase, Open Sunday Get Yes Vote

NANAIMO-Nanaimo's crucial referendam on purchase by the regional board of the bus system's equipment and buildings received a resounding affirmative vote Wednesday.

In the second vote, 1,200 city residents voted yes, and 271 said no to allowing paid entertainment Sunday afternoons. There were 6,885 ratepayers and 181 tenants eligible to vote on the

had predicted that if the bus vote failed Nanaimo would be without bus service by Oct. 15. Last night he said he was happy to see the question meet ap-

Alderman Ken Mediand said he was happy to see both refer-endums pass, and mentioned "especially for the old age pen-sioners, who would have had a lot of trouble otherwise," referring to discontinuation of the transit system.

He said Nanaimo would soon have Sunday movies. The bus referendum was common to Nanaimo, Departure Bay, Northfield, Wellington and Harewood. The vote breakdown showed in Harewood, 347 yes, and 135 no; Northfield, 179 yes, 48 no; Departure Bay, 302 yes, 65 no; Wellington, 225 yes, 80 no. Nanaimo voted 927 yes and 521 no. The bus service had been subsidized by the district and city on a two-year basis to allow a study of the system and to prepare plans for possible improvements.

Due to the saving of the system, bus service will likely be instituted in the Hammond Bay area and the northwesterly portion of Wellington. The service will include runs for the 668 Malaspina College students.

It has been planned that some runs would be express trips from the city boundaries into city centre. Under consideration also are special runs to Nanaimo regional general hosnital.

As a result of the vote, a twothirds-of-a-mill levy will be assessed the ratepayers within the same area from which the voters' list was compiled.

In addition to purchase of lands, buildings, equipment and rolling stock, funds will be provided for the purchase of two new buses.

Provisions have been made, in arrangements between the district and Mr. Swithin, to have the lands and building sold by Mr. Swithin and the $30,000 allotment dropped from the purchase price, or for the district to sell them afterward.

Similarly, the district will purchase used buses at a lower cost than the $75,000 allotted. The annual cost would be $37,102. The total purchase price of the tangible assets of Nanaimo Transit System will be $142,000.

The district will assume the city mortgage of $22,000 at five and half per cent interest and a further $90,000 will be bornaved on a five-year bank loan, rather than make a lump-sum loan for the total at today's higher interest rates. Annual expenses, including debt payments total $113.102 while revenue projected totals $76,000.

Two Boats Upset in Sooke River

Rifleman Disappears In Forces Exercise

Disaster struck an army exercise Wednesday on the Sooke River, leaving one soldier missing and presumed dead, and two others in hospital with injuries described as minor.

The three, all riflemen of A Company, lst Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles, were among 18 men spilled into the rushing water when two of four 12-foot rubber assault boats upset in a gorge.

Missing and presumed drowned is Rimn. Harold Wayne George, 19, of Vancou-

The two injured men were identified as Rfmn. J. G. Headrick, 18, who was taken to hospital at CFB Esquimalt with an injured leg, and Rfmn. R. Weeks, 22, who was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital for observation of a head injury. Two other men were examined at hospital and released. Major Derek Bamford of the QOR will open an inquiry today. The platoon from A Company was on the third day of manoeuvres in "waterman-ship" training. Thirty-six men in four rubber boats started down-river from the Leechtown area about 1 p.m. Wednesday. The accident occurred three miles down the river about an hour

Battalion adjutant Capt James Pass said the exercise was a routine one, part of a year-round training program, and all the men taking part wearing lifejackets.

The accommodation is designed to alleviate the shortage of hospital beds pending implementation of the gram which it is hoped will be approved by the voters in March, 1970.

The beds attached to St. Joseph's will be housed in preabricated units and will be termed "sub-acute" - which in hospital terminology means convalescent. The release of such beds will, eventually, mean more beds for acutecare patients who need emergency treatment.

In addition to 50 beds at St. Joseph's, an equal number will be released at Royal Jubilee Hospital. This will be done by transferring 50 patients from the pavilion (psychiatric ward) to the new Eric Martin Institute, where they will be cared for by Royal Jubilee
